

IV. Claims 50-55, drawn to a method of detecting a nucleic acid using a sequence repeat probe, classified in class 435, subclass 6.

With all due respect, applicants disagree that the Examiner's requirement is proper. However, in order to facilitate prosecution and to avoid a holding of non-responsiveness, applicants elect the claims of GROUP I with traverse. In the event that the Examiner does not withdraw the requirement, applicants expressly reserve the right to file a divisional application to the presently non-elected subject matter.

Applicants note that the Examiner has mischaracterized the invention. Claims 1-21, 48, 49 and 22-46 have been separated into Groups I and II because the method of detection in the first set of claims allegedly involves a ligand and the method of detection in the second set of claims utilizes an antibody. It is clearly stated that a ligand is used for capture and that an antibody is used for detection. Similarly, Group IV (claims 50-55) is stated as being distinct from groups I and III because it claims a method of identifying a target nucleic acid, such as a mutation. However, the invention using Groups I or II, may also be used to detect mutations.

Applicants request reconsideration of the Examiner's requirement. An examination of all of the claims and the issuance of an Official Action on the merits of all the pending claims is requested.

It is believed that the elected claims are in condition for allowance. Early and favorable action by the Examiner is earnestly solicited.

If the Examiner believes that issues may be resolved by a telephone interview, the Examiner is respectfully urged to telephone the undersigned at (212) 415-8564. The undersigned may also be contacted by e-mail at dauth@morganfinnegan.com.
